WITH WHICH IS INCORPORATED

The American Literary Gazette and Publishers' Circular.

[ESTABLISHED 1852.]

PUBLICATION OFFICE, 298 BROADWAY, NEW YORK.

Entered at the Post-Office at New York, N. Y., as second-class matter.

VOL. LXXI., No. 8. NEW YORK, February 23, 1907. WHOLE NO. 1830

"The author is a born raconteur. The atmosphere of old New England and the austerity of life under Cotton Mather is in sharp contrast to the brilliant details of pirate adventure. The story stands out by itself, dazzling by its naturalness and convincing in its deft interweaving of history and fiction."

A Capital Romance of the West and the Building of the Central Pacific

THE IRON WAY

This cover design is very effective and will attract immediate interest in the book.

A large poster reproduction of the cover, which makes a most striking advertisement, will be sent upon application.

The "Iron Way" is the Central Pacific Railroad. The completion of this great enterprise in 1867 provides the material for a story full of action and the power of big events. The author has made skillful use of some of the giant promoters of that day—Leland Stanford, Collis P. Huntington, Mark Hopkins, and Charles Crocker, upon whose initiative the railroad was planned and built. Of course it is not all railroad, for there is a most attractive love story involving the fortunes of Alfred Vincent and Stella Anthony, and there is plenty of the lively action characteristic of California in her early days.

"DO YOU THINK?"

"Do you ever find it difficult to concentrate your mind on one subject for any length of time? Do you know that you use only one-half of your brain? Does your brain originate thought or do you? Can you control what you shall think about? Have you any existence apart from your brain? Could you talk if some one had not taught you? Do you know what dreams are made of? Do you know why you believe you shall live again after death?

"We are going to recommend a book to you. We have no interest in it. We recommend it entirely in your interest. It is called 'Brain and Personality,' written in exquisite English, without a technical term in it, by a great specialist, Dr. W. Hanna Thomson, and published by Dodd, Mead & Co. If you wish to know who you are, by all means read that book and then pass it on to your friends. We read a great many books in our business. We have not found one in years that approaches this one in interest or profit. It makes the more dramatic fiction tame. Have the young people read it. You will be grateful to us for calling it to your attention. Have your newsdealer order it for you."—Everybody's Magazine.

NOTES IN SEASON.

L. C. PAGE & Co. will bring out at once a special limited edition, at a popular price, of "Asa Holmes," by Mrs. Annie Fellows Johnston, the author of the famous "Little Colonel" series.

EDWARD J. CLODE has just brought out a new story by Louis Tracy, entitled "The Captain of the Kansas," a stirring sea story—the best, it is thought, that the author has ever written.

DUFFIELD & Co. will publish on March 9 "The Windfall," by Charles Egbert Craddock, (Miss Murfree,) a fascinating modern romance, in which the author introduces the reader to many attractive characters, both from the world of the mountaineers whom she has long made famous and from the upper world of society.

THE AMERICAN BAPTIST PUBLICATION SOCIETY have in preparation "Sunny," by Margaret A. Frost, daughter of Dr. J. M. Frost, a story which reveals a delightful type of Southern life; "The Church at Libertyville," by the Rev. Dr. J. W. Conley, a story, which in the form of a diary, deals with the various problems, difficulties and annoyances of general church work; also, "The Self-Effacement of Malachi Joseph," by Everett T. Tomlinson, which is specially recommended to the study of the outgoing students of theological seminaries.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY will publish at once "German Religious Life in Colonial Times," by Lucy Forney Bittinger, who for several years brought out another study of the Germans in America, called "The Germans in Colonial Times." In the new volume, her aim has been to make a connected story of all the churches of the period, rather than to follow separately the thread of each particular denomination's annals. They will publish later Arthur Tilley's "Appreciation of François Rabelais," in the French Men of Letters series; also, "Running Horse Inn," a new story by Alfred Tresidder Sheppard, who, it is said, has selected a theme that would have suited Thomas Hardy in his earlier days.

JOHN W. LUCE & COMPANY, Boston, will shortly issue, as a Lenten offering, an attractive little book under the title of "The First True Gentleman," a study in the human nature of Jesus, with an introduction by Edward Everett Hale. The author's treatment of his subject has aroused considerable discussion in London, and Dr. Hale's introduction adds a most important word of world-wide interest to the argument. Their recent books are "The Miracle Worker," by Gerald Maxwell, the story of an enthusiastic young surgeon, the "miracle worker," who apparently restores life by the aid of occult power; "The Quest," by Dr. Frederick Van Eeden, a mystically fascinating book; also, an authorized translation by May J. Safford, of "A Question of Honor," by Dr. Max Nordau, who discusses the treatment of the Jews in Germany and Russia with dramatic power.

A. C. MCCLURG & Co. will publish on March 2 "The Iron Way," a story of the Central Pacific Railroad, by Sarah Pratt Carr, who has made skillful use of some of the giant promoters of that day—Leland Stanford, Collis P. Huntington, Charles Crocker and others upon whose initiative the railroad was planned and built. Of course, the book is not all railroad, for a most attractive love story runs through it all. John W. Norton has furnished the illustrations. On the same date they will bring out a volume of "Indian Love Letters," by Marah Ellis Ryan, which presents a Hopi Indian lad who returns from an eastern college, where he was to absorb the white man's civilization. While he learned the white man's ways he kept in his heart the ancient faith. The letters are pathetic and give a new and more personal meaning to the red man's spiritual preferences.

"To bring home to the people of Great Britain a sense of the danger of neglecting the physical condition of the nation's children." The work includes chapters on infant mortality, on children under school age and during their school years, and on factory children. Prevalent diseases and abuses are considered, as well as the manner and cost of improving the conditions causing these. With chapters on the ideal home and the ideal school for the children of the poorer classes. A comprehensive and important work.

His work is designed to prevent some of the 120,000 yearly infant deaths in England and Wales. The problem is presented in chapters on fatal diseases of infancy and the ante- and post-natal causes of these. The solution is presented in chapters on preventive methods affecting the mother, the child and its environment.

Noble, E. The issue: a story of the River Thames. N. Y., Doubleday, Page & Co., 1907. c. '06, '07. 407 p. O. cl., *$1.50.

Fisherman's Gat is a narrow sand bar at the mouth of the River Thames. It can only be passed at high tide, and has been the scene of many disasters. The shadow of a man in a boat is said to hover over the Gat, the "curse of the Gat" falling on all who see him. This superstition throws a gloomy air over many scenes of the story, "the curse" coming home tragically to several of the characters. The love of two men for the same girl is the plot. The men are both "skippers," one being a fine fellow, the other full of supernatural beliefs. The story is played in villages along the Thames. It originally appeared in England under the title "Fisherman's Gat." By the author of "The edge of circumstance."

This volume was published serially in Forest and Stream, under the title "In the lodges of the Blackfeet," and the pseudonym W. B. Anderson. The story is a true one, the title-page now bearing the author's real name. Mr. Schultz when a young man of twenty went west to Montana Territory in search of wild life and adventure, finding both with the Piegan Blackfeet Indians. He married into the tribe and lived with them for many years; went with them on the hunt and on the warpath and joined in their religious ceremonies. Such an intimate revelation of the domestic life of the Indians has seldom before been written. It is rich not only in unusual episodes and exciting adventures, but in romance and sentiment.

- The author of "The wings of the morning" and other novels selects a vessel bound from Valparaiso to London as the scene of a new story of romance and adventure. The leading characters are two young girls, an old Spanish doctor having them in charge, an English missionary and his wife, and several other passengers of no great importance. The incidents are numerous and exciting. Among them are a successful attempt to blow up the engines with dynamite, leaving the vessel helplessly adrift in mid-ocean, and the wreck of the "Kansas" upon an unknown island inhabited by cannibals, who attack the ship. Through these exciting episodes is traced the captain's romance with one of his pretty passengers.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

FEBRUARY 23, 1907.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter for advertising pages should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Publishers are requested to furnish title page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers and librarians depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalog," and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

A PUBLISHER'S VIEW OF HIS PROFESSION.

JOHN MURRAY, of the famous English publishing firm, contributes to the December [1906] issue of The Contemporary Review an interesting article on the work of a publisher. The article is entitled "A Publisher in Peace Time," very likely to emphasize the fact that the publisher has other, more important and peaceable work to perform than to engage in war, whether it be with The Times or any other dark power.

Mr. Murray, who notices the depredations of the undersellers only in the briefest manner, dismisses the so-called "Book War" in the following words:

"The appeal of The Times is made to the instinct of greed; to the purchaser who desires to secure a bargain, regardless of whether it is offered at the expense of some one else or not. The estimates of production set forth by The Times are incomplete and inaccurate in almost every detail, but even assuming them to be correct, their whole justification rests on such cheapness as sweated labor and inferior materials alone can produce. It does not enter into the purview of the writer to suppose that either an author or a publisher can take a pride in turning a book out in a creditable manner and in spending on it more than the lowest 'grinding' prices require, and yet such a pride does exist, and will continue to exist, in spite of all the efforts of The Times to eradicate it."

Fassing on to points of more general interest in connection with his business, Mr. Murray deals with the sudden and mysterious dead stop that often occurs in the sale of books; the unacknowledged and unpaid for editorial supervision that a work may call for after acceptance; the large demand for free copies of books (five for copyright purposes alone, in England); and the doubling, in the last thirty years, of a publisher's general establishment expenses.

As to what creates popularity, Mr. Murray says that the popular belief that Gladstone could secure the success of any book was proved false in the failure of three promising biographies published by Mr. Murray, two of them at Gladstone's instigation, and all three puffed by reviews, speeches, and private commendation from the great statesman. According to Mr. Murray probably not more than a score or two all told of the modern English novelists' books sell to the extent of over 10,000 and the large number of new novels do not sell beyond one or two thousand copies. To produce 1000 copies of an ordinary novel, Mr. Murray calculates, "costs about £85, or 1s. 8½d. the copy; add, say, £50 for advertising and we have a total of £135. If the whole edition be sold, the gross yield is £148, leaving £13 for author and publisher; 2000 in like manner would cost, with advertising, £160 or £170, and would yield just over £300."

As to the personal work of the publisher the following "confession" may be of interest to the trade as well as to the general public:

"Manuscripts are sent to him in large numbers, let us say to the extent of two or three per working day of the year; they are distributed among a number of readers, who form and express an opinion upon them. The larger part is at once rejected as useless; the rest are reported as being good or doubtful. In the case of important works involving technical knowledge, some are sent to specialists for a second opinion. The publisher himself generally reads the others and forms his own decision. This is an essential part of his business, for if the work be accepted and published he will, in many cases, be in almost daily communication with the author, reading his proofs, offering suggestions, helping to verify references and generally acting as a sort of sub-editor. This last remark applies mainly to the work of new and inexperienced authors, as the experienced ones do not always require such assistance."

"I have no wish to refer to my own personal work in an egotistic spirit, but, as I believe it is similar to that performed by all well-known brethren of the craft, I may mention that I have in this way edited, or in part edited, or read the proofs of over 200 books. In some cases the author has acknowledged this help, unasked, in his preface; in many more he has done so in private letters; in some cases he appears to regard it as a proceeding requiring no time or labor and not worth mentioning. I need hardly add that these services, such as they are, are rendered as part of a publisher's ordinary responsibility, and are never paid for."

"When a ms. is accepted, it has to be 'cast off,' or measured up by the printer; type and page have to be decided, and many specimens are often set up before the form is fixed. The processes of proof revising, of choosing and making illustrations and maps, and all the other minutiae of printing, need not be specified here; it is sufficient to say that they involve an indefinite amount of labor, watching and care, if they are to be properly fulfilled. Once more I must touch on a personal question. My brother Hallam is now pretty well known as an amateur artist, and one who has had wide experience of all processes of art reproduction. All illustrations pass through his hands and on many occasions he has spent days, or even weeks, in superintending the illustrations of one book, selecting pictures, touching up proofs and plates, and even redrawing the subjects himself." . . .

"It must not, however, be supposed that a publisher's work consists wholly or even mainly in awaiting mss. and dealing with them as they come in. His more arduous duties comprise the originating and carrying out of new works; the finding out what standard books and books of reference are required, discovering men to write them, and searching for new markets and new wants in the United Kingdom and the Colonies. If he be an educational publisher he must keep in touch with hundreds of schools and schoolmasters, and learn from them in what respects his books are capable of improvement and what gaps there are to be filled up. This involves an endless amount of correspondence, and many expensive journeys and interviews.

"The 'Dictionary of National Biography' is a standing monument of the enterprise of publishers, and so is the great series of classical and Biblical dictionaries planned and carried out by my father in conjunction with Sir William Smith. No one will deny the value of these works. Some may imagine that they are undertaken with the sole idea of sordid gain; but this is far from being the case; many of them have proved very profitable undertakings, but none has proved remunerative until after many years of waiting and hard work, and the expenditure of very large sums of money. For example, the 'Dictionary of Christian Biography' and the 'Dictionary of Hymnology,' which have no rivals in any language and are everywhere regarded as the standard authorities on the subjects they deal with, and the 'Classical Atlas' and the separate sheet maps, the best of their kind in the world, at present show a deficit of more thousands of pounds than I care to proclaim; but we are none the less proud of having prepared and published them. We publishers have, all of us, made endeavors from time to time to earn the credit of giving to the world books of lasting worth, with only a secondary eye to profit, which often never comes."

No business, concludes Mr. Murray, except perhaps the management of a great newspaper, demands so much unremitting labor, alertness, and attention to infinite detail, as the business of publishing books.

At a special meeting of the American Publishers' Association, held on the 11th inst., it was decided to amend the by-laws of the Association by striking out Article VII., removing all provision for penalties excepting only those for non-payment of dues. We are pleased to note that the members of the Association, with two minor exceptions, are unanimous in the expression of their intention to support the booktrade reform without regard to any change of plan. The American Publishers' Association is undoubtedly in a better position now to maintain reform than it has been at any time since its organization; and if the retail trade will do its share and stand loyally by their allies, the publishers, the future of the booktrade will be secure.

IT has been suggested by our English brethren of the trade that American publishers, who are supposed to have troubles enough of their own in fighting underselling at home, might be considerate enough not to give comfort to the English underseller abroad—The Times Book Club, for example—by supplying him with the means to wage war against them. It is claimed that Mr. Hooper, during his recent visit in this country, purchased upwards of 20,000 volumes from members of the American Publishers' Association and others and that he is expecting another large consignment from the same sources. The German booktrade has offered assistance to their English brethren by refusing to supply English books to supposed agents of the undersellers, and we trust that the American booktrade will also refuse to furnish stock—even if it be only dead or "plug" stock—to an agency whose sole aim it is to use such stock only as a club with which to beat the life out of the regular booktrade.

THE GRAPHIC ARTS AT THE JAMES-TOWN EXPOSITION.

THE DEPARTMENT OF GRAPHIC ARTS of the Jamestown Tercentennial Exposition, to be held at Hampton Roads, Va., April 26 to December 1, 1907, in commemoration of the first English settlement in America, has published a prospectus explaining the plan and scope of the exhibit of printing, publishing, engraving and binding. The purpose of the Department of Graphic Arts will be less to make an inclusive exhibit of all the tools, machines and products of America than to obtain a selective display of the best machines, the best products of the foremost printing, binding and engraving houses of the country. The main divisions of exhibits in this department will be as follows:

I HISTORICAL EXHIBIT.

The historical exhibit will be a display of the work of the American press during the nearly three hundred years of its existence. Beginning with early Americana, of which there are many rare and extremely interesting specimens, the examples will include work from the Colonial presses, books, newspapers and broadsides, and will trace the art down by way of Franklin and Thomas to the nineteenth century. The characteristic books of that period will be shown, bringing the art down to a point where it will logically connect with the main exhibit of modern work. Among the examples in this group will be specimens of early engraving and binding.

II. PRINTING, ENGRAVING, AND BINDING MACHINERY AND PRINTING-OFFICE SUPPLIES.

Since methods and processes play a most important part in the production of printed matter of high quality, the exhibit of machines and supplies under the above head will be one of the very greatest importance to printers and others interested in the technical details of printing, and forming an instructive exhibit for every one. Presses, type-setting machines, paper-cutters, engraving and binding machinery, together with the various smaller furnishings of the printing office, the engraving plant and the bindery, will be adequately shown. Included in this group will be the exhibits of type from the leading foundries and of ink from the foremost ink makers. It is the intention in this group to obtain a representative display of the best and most highly developed machines and tools, in order to give a comprehensive idea of the present state of the industries whose products will be exhibited.

Of very great interest in this connection will be the "live" exhibits—of machinery in motion.

III. PAPER.

There will be an interesting display illustrating the manufacture of paper and showing samples of the wide and interesting varieties of American papers. This will include both hand and machine-made book and cover papers, besides papers for special purposes.

IV. BOOK PRINTING.

In many ways this will be the most interesting of the exhibits, as showing the present state of American printing in the most permanent of printed forms. The wide range of American work, its great variety of accomplishments in form and style and color will be adequately shown by numerous exhibits. This group will be divided (so far as seems practicable) into several classes viz.: Fine Editions, Trade Editions, School Books and the issues of Private Presses. The great extent of the publishing business to-day would point to a large and characteristic display of printed books. It will be found desirable, probably, to include under this head a considerable amount of small work, such as calendars, mottoes, etc., which has more or less of a permanent value.

V. PERIODICALS.

It is in her periodical printing that America excels any other nation, and this large and vigorous class of printed products will be represented by important displays of typography, design and color. The exhibit will show the steps employed to obtain the remarkable results shown in the best of modern periodicals.

VI. COMMERCIAL PRINTING.

In no class of printing is the remarkable versatility of the American printer more aptly shown than in the innumerable forms of printing used in the commercial activities of the country. These include the small office forms, advertising circulars and illustrated catalogues. In the latter there is frequently remarkable use of the latest processes of illustrating, of new and attractive styles in type and paper, and to the business man this exhibit will be invaluable. The group will include original drawings and typographical displays of commercial forms of every kind.

VII. ENGRAVING.

The exhibition of modern hand and mechanical engraving which will be included in this group will be as representative as is possible. It will include work under the heads of wood-engraving, line and half-tone engraving, photogravure, lithography and the color processes. Photo-engraving, as a distinctively modern process, will be adequately shown.

VIII. BINDING.

Exhibits under this group will include hand-bound and tooled books by the leading American binders, and a great variety of edition bindings—a class of work in which many notable results have been achieved. In connection with the bindings will be a comprehensive showing of book cloths, leathers and other materials used.

In order to develop this department upon the most comprehensive lines possible, securing unity and a fully representative showing, an Advisory Board, consisting of men foremost in printing and the allied arts, is to co-operate in the plan outlined. This Advisory Board is made up of the following men prominently identified with American printing: C. H. Brandon, The Brandon Printing Co., Nashville, Tenn.

M. M. Davis, Foote & Davies Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Theodore L. De Vinne, The De Vinne Press, 12 Lafayette Place, New York.

T. E. Donnelley, R. R. Donnelley & Sons Co., Plymouth Place, Chicago.

A. W. Elson, A. W. Elson & Co., 146 Oliver Street, Boston.

Walter Gilliss, The Gillis Press, 141 East 25th Street, New York.

E. A. Kendrick, Matthews-Northrup Works, Buffalo, N. Y.

J. Horace McFarland, J. Horace McFarland Co., Harrisburg, Pa.

George H. Mifflin, Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 4 Park Street, Boston.

Frank C. Nunemacher, The Nunemacher Press, Louisville, Ky.

William Dana Orcutt, The University Press, Cambridge, Mass.

Charles A. Stillings, Public Printer, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C.
Edward Stern, Edward Stern & Co., Philadelphia, Pa.

Willis J. Wells, Binner-Wells Co., Chicago.

The duties of the Advisory Board will be to approve such vital and important matter as is issued by this department from time to time, and further to render such suggestions and assistance as may be possible. They will use such influence as they may be able to do consistently with exhibitors in an effort to assist the department in producing a display that will be in full keeping with the great industry that the Exposition Company has undertaken to thus set forth to the world.

The address of Carl Purington Rollins, chief of the Department of Graphic Arts of the Jamestown Tercentennial Exposition, is Norfolk, Va.

INTERNATIONAL TEXT BOOK CO. NOT SUBJECT TO STATE TAXATION.

THE United States Supreme Court has just decided that the business of the International Text Book Company, of Scranton, Pa., the proprietors of the International Correspondence School, is interstate commerce and not subject to State taxation. The ruling of the Supreme Court also contained the additional fact that the International Text Book Company was right in the contention that its instruction papers, although written on a single sheet of paper, are "books" in the meaning of the law, and that in distributing these books for a monetary consideration the company is engaged in the business of selling "books."

A CANADIAN BOOKSELLERS' ASSOCIATION.

FOLLOWING the protest of the Canadian book-trade against the Ontario Government's proposal to engage in the school book business, those booksellers who met in Toronto last month formed the Booksellers' and Stationers' Association of the Province of Ontario, and at a meeting on January 15 elected the following officers: President, Wm. Tyrrell, Wm. Tyrrell & Co., Toronto; vice-president, J. G. Cloke & Son, Hamilton; secretary and treasurer, W. A. Craick, editor Bookseller and Stationer, Toronto; Executive Committee—E. S. Brown, Collingwood; W. B. Hart, Perth; R. A. Robertson, Hamilton; A. H. Stratton, Peterboro, and G. W. Sulman, Chatham.

As the Toronto Bookseller and Stationer points out, there is a great deal of work to be done by the association, in addition to keeping up the fight against the proposed measure of the Ontario Government to distribute school books. The aggressions of the department stores must be withheld. Wholesale houses must be respectfully and firmly forced to stop selling direct to the public. The c. o. d. parcel post measure must be strenuously opposed. In fact, there are so many subjects to take up that it is difficult to know where to begin."

ECONOMY IN THE GOVERNMENT PRINTING OFFICE.

THE report of the commission composed of members of both the Senate and House appointed during the last session of Congress to consider abuses and irregularities in the government printing was submitted on February 18 to the Senate by Senator Platt, chairman of the committee, and to the House by Representative Landis.

The commission believes that a saving of more than $1,500,000 in the cost of printing for the current fiscal year has been secured by the reforms already accomplished, and a bill was submitted with the report which, it is hoped, will do much more toward correcting abuses.

The changes proposed deal with both Congressional and departmental printing and are an effort to regulate and classify all printing in either interest. It is pointed out that Congress and Congressional committees have frequently violated the law. For instance, an existing statute fixes at $500 the limit of cost on printing committee hearings, whereas the cost of printing the railroad rate hearings of the Senate Committee on Interstate Commerce was $7910. It is also pointed out that much additional cost has been entailed by perfunctorily following the rule of ordering printed without examination all documents forwarded from executive departments, bureaus, commissions, etc., and one instance is cited in which the publication of a document worthless for distribution was thus ordered. The entire cost would have been $60,000, but the Committee on Printing discovered the situation in time to save all but $25,000 of that amount. It is proposed to remedy the evil by requiring estimates of the cost of printing executive documents of a length greater than fifty pages.

CATHOLIC PUBLISHING IN GERMANY.

ACCORDING to "Keiters Katholischer Literatur-kalender," for 1907, the following figure among the most important Catholic publishing houses according to the number of persons employed:

Herdersche Verlagshandlung, Freiburg..	570
J. P. Bachem, Cologne.....	480
Verlagsanstalt vorm. Manz, Regensburg.	300
Butzon & Berker, Kevelaer.....	300
Friedrich Pustet, Regensburg.....	280

It is estimated that altogether about 3500 persons are employed in the Catholic publishing houses in Germany.

TO MAINTAIN BOOKTRADE REFORM.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

DEAR SIR: As an individual publishing house interested in the stability and dignity of the retail booktrade and in its educational value to the public, this company will continue to use its best efforts to secure equitable and reasonably uniform treatment for both the booktrade and the public in the matter of retail prices of its copyrighted publications. The benefit of wholesale rates will be given to those dealers only who for one year after the publication of each of our copyrighted books observe the following system in selling every such book:

Net books are to be sold at retail at full prices; regular works (fiction and juvenile literature not net) are to be sold at retail at no greater discount than 28 per cent. from the list price in each case. Discounts made to libraries are not to exceed 10 per cent. on our net books and 33 1-3 on our regular books.

No sales of our copyrighted books are to be made at wholesale to any one who fails to maintain the system of retail prices just described.

We shall use on our bill-heads and on copies of orders given to customers by our travelling salesmen the following form:

CONDITIONS OF SALE (IN CONSIDERATION OF WHOLESALE RATES.)

Retail prices of our copyright books for one year from publication date: Net books, full price; Regular books, no greater discount than 28%.

Discounts to libraries: Net books, 10%; Regular books, 33 1-3%.

No sales at wholesale to any one violating these conditions.

AMERICAN BAPTIST PUB. SOC. FOR REFORM.

THE manager of the American Baptist Publication Society has issued the following circular to the trade:

We wish to announce to you that we shall accept all of the recommendations made by the American Publishers' Association at their last monthly meeting, held in New York on January 9, and that we shall abide by the same. You are of course fully informed in regard to these recommendations, as they have appeared in all the trade papers. We shall publish books at net prices as heretofore, and will continue to allow you such discounts from these prices as will make it possible for you to make a fair net profit. We wish to thank you for your co-operation with us in the matter of maintaining the prices which we have fixed on our own publications. We appreciate the generous patronage which you have extended to us and ask for a continuance of the same.

The following notice will appear on our bill heads:

Our own books are sold to the trade with the understanding that on "net" books no discount is to be given at retail for one year after publication and 10 per cent. only to Libraries.

On "regular" books not more than 28 per cent. may be given at retail and not more than 33 1-3 per cent. to Libraries.

CHARLES M. ROE,
Business Manager American Baptist Pub. Soc.

LOOK OUT FOR THIS THIEF.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

DEAR SIR: On Saturday last, February 16, we had a man arrested for stealing books in our store. The man goes by the name of John Mack. His occupation is said to be that of waiter; his age fifty-six. He is about 5 feet 2 inches tall, gray mustache, very nervous, continually jerking his head, wears spectacles, and when searched had on an overcoat with pocket reaching to the bottom of his coat. This man is an old hand at the business, having been in our place before. When he comes into the store he inquires for one of the firm, and then asks if he may look around, being an old bookworm. He was sentenced to-day to thirty days in the Tombs, it being his first offence so far as the police were able to find out. He pleaded guilty. This may save some other bookseller from loss.

BOOKTRADE ASSOCIATIONS.

BOOKSELLERS' LEAGUE FEBRUARY DINNER.

THE February dinner of the Booksellers' League was given at the Aldine Association on the evening of the 20th inst., and notwithstanding the Lenten season nearly ninety members did full justice to an excellent menu.

The guests of honor were Ellis Parker Butler, author of "The Incubator Baby," "Pigs is Pigs," etc., and Captain Bradley S. Osborn, author of "A Sailor of Fortune." Mr. Butler read a new humorous story as yet unpublished, entitled "The Great American Pie Co.," bubbling over with humor and keen in satire. Captain Osborn, who is on the border line of four score years, spun a yarn for an hour and a half recounting his adventures in many climes in a way that "captured" his hearers completely.

OBITUARY NOTES.

GIOSE CARDUCCI, who was considered to be Italy's greatest poet, died on the 16th inst., in Bologna. Carducci was born at Baldicastello, Tuscany, July 27, 1836. Since 1860 he had been professor of Italian literature at the University of Bologna. Last year he received the Nobel prize in literature. Queen Margherita has just purchased Carducci's house and library and presented them to the city of Bologna to serve as a Carducci Museum.

RALPH TILTON, only son of Theodore Tilton, died of pneumonia on the 16th inst. at his residence, 738 West End Avenue, New York City. Mr. Tilton was born in Brooklyn, N.Y., in 1870. From his youth he was interested in art, and though he never became a professional artist he was clever in designing. For several years he was art editor of the Philadelphia Saturday Evening Post. Subsequently he was appointed manager of the advertising department of The Delineator, which he administered so successfully that he was made editor of the magazine in 1905, a position he held until about a year ago. Mr. Tilton was an old friend of the B. C. T., and entertained it on several occasions.

THE RT. HON. GEORGE JOACHIM GOSCHEN died suddenly on the 6th inst. Lord Goschen was born in London in 1831, and was the grandson of Georg Joachim Goschen, the celebrated publisher of Leipsic, whose "Life and Times" he wrote in 1903. In the same year he was made Chancellor of Oxford University. As an undergraduate at Oriel he had a reputation both for wit and scholarship, and won two first classes in 1852 and 1853. His "Theory of Foreign Exchanges," which has passed through many editions, and "Essays and Addresses on Economic Questions," (1905,) represent the chief interest of his political life, though he was also a keen student of educational problems.

COLONEL HENRY STEEL OLcott co-founder with the late Mme. Blavatsky of the Theosophical Society, died on the 17th inst. at Adyar, India. Colonel Olcott was born in Orange, N. J., August 2, 1832. He was graduated from the University of New York in 1851 and four years later started a school of scientific agriculture at Mt. Vernon, N. Y. He wrote a book on sugar cultivation which went through seven editions. The school did not pay, and Olcott then became a writer on agricultural subjects for the New York Tribune. When the war between the States broke out Olcott enlisted and served a year, when he was invalided. He was then employed by Secretary Stanton to investigate certain frauds in the Mustering and Disbursing Office in New York City and in the navy yards. After the war Olcott studied law and was admitted to the bar. Before long he had a large and lucrative practice, which he abandoned in 1874 to found and develop the Theosophical Society, to which he was devoted up to the time of his death.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

DR. HORACE HOWARD FURNESS, the eminent Shakespearean scholar, is hard at work seeing through the press the fifteenth volume of his monumental New Variorum edition of the Works of William Shakespeare. The play treated in this volume will be "Antony and Cleopatra," upon which he has devoted his entire time since the publication of his edition of "Love's Labour's Lost," more than two years ago.

THE appointment of Augustine Birrell as chief secretary for Ireland to succeed James Bryce, the new Ambassador to Washington, is announced. Augustine Birrell is president of the Board of Education in the new cabinet and is noted as a lawyer and writer. Since 1899 he has been an honorary fellow of Trinity Hall, Cambridge University. Mr. Birrell was born in Liverpool in 1850. He was graduated from Cambridge in 1872, became a barrister in 1875, and in 1903 was made a bencher of the Inner Temple. For a time he was Quain professor of law in University College, London, and first entered Parliament in 1889. Among his most notable works are "Obiter Dicta," "Res Judicatae," "In the Name of The Bodleian," "Men, Women and Books," "Essays and Addresses," published in this country by the Scribners.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

The Southern Automobilist is the title of a new magazine devoted to motors and motoring published at Atlanta, Ga., at 25 cents the copy. While general in character, the magazine is intended to be primarily a Southern journal published for Southern readers.

Postal Progress is the title of a new monthly journal published by the Postal Progress League, 361 Broadway, New York City and 6 Beacon Street, Boston, Mass. The journal notes the work of the Postal Progress League in particular and postal progress in general. The subscription price is $1 a year and ten cents a single copy.

THE "Winter Number" of Poet Lore contains an especially attractive programme. The play is Gorky's "Smug Citizen," translated by Edwin Hopkins, whose translation of the same author's "A Night's Lodging" appeared a year ago. Among the important articles are "In Re Caliban," by Oscar Lovell Triggs; "Plato as a Literary School for Writers," by Janet Payne Bowles; "Southern Verse," by Tom S. Stribling; "The German Fairy Tale Contest," by Max Bratt; "Shakespeare's Clownery," by Charles W. Hodell; and "The Motherless Heroine," by Louise Maunsell Field. There is some notable poetry and an interesting translation from the original Anglo-Saxon, entitled "The Wanderer."

BIBLIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

ITALIAN CATALOGUE OF LITERATURE AND ART.—In Italy the State protects national art treasures, for the preservation of which other nations must rely upon private munificence. The present working of the law, however, according to the London Academy, "appears to be unsatisfactory, and Signor Rava, the Italian Minister for Public Instruction, is bringing in a bill under which no article of artistic, historical or archaeological interest over fifty years old belonging to the State, provinces, towns, villages or ecclesiastical bodies can be sold. Public and private owners will be compelled to supply Signor Rava and his successors will full particulars of works of art or important buildings in their possession; export will be forbidden, and the State will have the option of purchasing for the nation any such treasures which come into the market. If the bill is passed—and there seems every prospect that it will be—in a few years at most Italy will be in possession of a catalogue of her literary, architectural and artistic wealth such as no other country can boast."

PERSONAL NOTES.

WILLIAM P. GLENNEY, many years with John Wanamaker and later with the Syndicate Trading Co., has accepted a position with the Baker & Taylor Co.

ISAAC F. MARCOSSON, for some years associate editor of The World's Work and connected with the publishing activities of Doubleday, Page & Co. in general, has resigned to take a position on the staff of the Philadelphia Saturday Evening Post.

ROBERT H. VAN COURT has resigned his position with the Charles Fuller Advertising Company to become Office Manager of Robert Grier Cooke, Inc., 307 Fifth Avenue, New York City. Mr. Van Court is well known in business and advertising circles and the accession of his services by this house further attests its progress.

W. F. MURRAY, for ten years with W. H. Keyser & Company, Philadelphia, is now associated with the Farquhar & Albrecht Co., of Chicago. Mr. Murray has had twenty-five years of experience in the buying and selling of second-hand school and college text-books, and believes that with his knowledge of affairs and friends throughout the East and West to be able to better serve his friends by being more centrally located.

BUSINESS NOTES.

ATLANTA, GA.—W. B. Burke, bookseller, it is reported, has filed a petition in bankruptcy.

POCATELLO, IDA.—The Bookstore Pharmacy has opened a new store with a stock of drugs, books and stationery.

SELMA, ALA.—The Rowell-Sterne Book Co. has been succeeded by the Rowell Book and Novelty Co.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

E. DARROW & CO., Rochester, N. Y., announce "Ye Old Log School House Tymes, and Pioneer Sketches," by John S. Minard.

THOMAS WHITTAKER has just published a volume by H. J. Wilmot Buxton, under the title of "God's Heroes," consisting of sermons on Bible characters in whom the heroic was strangely developed.

THE long-promised "Letters of Queen Victoria," which will be published in this country by Longmans, Green & Co., have been still further delayed because, in order to secure American copyright, the book must be set up and printed in this country. The work will therefore not be ready until next fall.

THE CENTURY CO. will publish in book form on March 2 A. E. W. Mason's "Running Water," which has been appearing serially in the Century since August. On the same date they will issue Frederic C. Penfield's "East of Suez," a book of travel laying special stress on America's neglect of trading opportunities in Asia.

MCCLURE, PHILLIPS & CO. have in preparation "From King to King," by G. Lowes Dickinson, who endeavors to state, by a series of dialogues, in prose and verse, certain universal aspects of the Puritan revolution, and to delineate the character of the leading actors in the struggles. They also announce another Pennsylvania Dutch story by Helen Reimensnyder Martin, author of "Tillie, a Mennonite Maid," entitled "His Courtship."

WILLIAM J. BURKHARDT, 206 Ocean Avenue, Jersey City, N. J., is showing a strong line of Easter post cards. His faith in their selling qualities is such that he offers to buy back unsold stock after Easter if cash accompanies an order to the amount of $10, which he sends prepaid. The line comprises a new series of linen post cards—thirty styles of children and chicken designs, at $10 the thousand. There is also a series of fifty designs in embossed post cards of religious subjects, children, rabbits and chickens; also a series of photogravure post cards and folders, oval penwipers with ivory paper cutters and novelty leather tags, the latter selling for $6 the hundred.

THE JOHN LANE COMPANY have just published "The Dangerville Inheritance," a detective story by A. C. Fox-Davies, a London lawyer, who is said to have found the legal portion of Conan Doyle's writings unconvincing to the minds of lawyers and has set out to write a detective story that should be legally sound. They announce a Spanish Series which will deal with Spain in its various aspects, its history, its cities and its monuments. The volumes will have many illustrations from paintings and from photographs. The first one will contain a biography and "appreciation" of Murillo, and the second an historical account of the royal armory at Madrid. They also announce "A Boy's Marriage," a problem story by Hugh de Selincourt.

SISLEY'S LTD., the enterprising young London publishing firm, have also joined the movement to issue their new fiction at 2s. 6d. net instead of the orthodox discount of 6s. These new novels at the new price are said to be equal in size, quality and style to the regulation "six shilling" book. Sisley's make a feature of their series of classics de luxe—The Panel-Books—in which they are issuing twenty titles in lamskin and rough Persian leather. They are now starting a companion series for standard fiction—The Novel-Books—in purple lamskin, and a popular library of classics—The Sisley Books—in cloth at 1s., (25 cents.) They have recently brought out an English edition of "Historia Amoris," by Edgar Saltus.

E. P. DUTTON & Co. have prepared for this Easter season an extensive and very attractive line of cards, booklets and mechanical novelties. Especial regard has been had for the tastes and whims of the young people, and for them have been prepared cards with chicks, ducks and bunnies peeping out of eggs and baskets in the most life-like fashion. For the grown-ups there are many artistic designs in flowers, crosses and other appropriate emblems of the Resurrection, beautifully and artistically printed. A particularly dainty line is a rubricated text card. There are also post-cards and pretty little cards shaped as eggs that serve as modest reminders of the season. It would be impossible to notice the various sets of designs in detail; suffice it to say that each is appropriate and attractive in its own way and is bound to sell on sight.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & Co. will bring out in March "The First Claim," by M. Hamilton, a story which deals with fundamental emotions, the mysterious bond of mother and child, in a way which should make it a widely-discussed book. A young girl, beautiful but undeveloped, has married the local aristocrat—a great catch for her. She finds her life impossible and presently goes off with the man she cares for. These two love each other devotedly, but there comes between them the inevitable remembrance of the woman's deserted child, whose claim grows stronger as she learns the true meaning of love and marriage. The story of how this dramatic situation comes to a climax makes up a novel of real power. Late in March, possibly the 26th, they will bring out Peary's book, "Nearest the North Pole." They have postponed publication of Upton Sinclair's new book, "Industrial Republic," to April 4, and Thomas Dixon, Jr.'s "The Traitor" until April 16.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY publish this week Jack London's new novel, "Before Adam," which is the record of a mental and imaginative voyage of discovery in which the author has explored and mapped the regions that lie beyond the reach of history; "Freedom in the Church," by Professor Alexander V. G. Allen, of the Episcopal Theological School in Cambridge, Mass., who speaks with authority on the present situation in his Church; volume 1 of the "Cyclopedia of American Agriculture," to be completed in four volumes under the editorship of Professor L. H. Bailey, of Cornell, which promises to prove the most important reference book on agriculture ever undertaken in this country; "A German Science Reader," by William H. Wait, of Michigan University; volume 2 of the "Handbook of Metallurgy," by Dr. Carl Schnabel, one of the leading scientists in Germany; a new and revised edition of "Religion, Natural and Revealed," by N. S. Joseph; "Electrons," by Sir Oliver Lodge; a new edition of "The Dynamo," by C. C. Hawkins and F. Wallis; and "The Principles and Practice of Coal Mining," by James Tonge.

GEORGE W. JACOBS & Co. will publish at once the biography of Frederick Douglass, promised last year for the American Crisis Biographies series. Those who have read the advance sheets of the book agree that the story of this man's life possesses unusual interest, almost fascinating one with the variety and romance of his remarkable career. From a slave boy on a Maryland plantation he rose, through sheer strength of will and force of character, to hold high government positions and to be a leader among men, particularly of his own race, at a time when they greatly needed a representative to bring the wrongs of slavery before the American people. The story of his life is told by one well qualified to write such a volume—Booker T. Washington. Upon the completion of the series of articles on "Jay Cooke, the Financier of the Civil War," now running in the Century Magazine, a full and authorized biography of this remarkable American will be published by George W. Jacobs & Co. This book, (of which the serial articles form a part,) is by Dr. Ellis Paxson Oberholtzer, the author of a work on Robert Morris and the finances of the Revolution. Dr. Oberholtzer has had free access to all the Cooke papers which comprised many chests full of letters, documents, maps, and scrap books preserved in the most careful way by a methodical business man. All this material has been utilized to the full with the approval and aid of the family. The work will be amply illustrated with portraits and facsimiles and will be a valuable contribution to the history of the Civil War and the speculative era which preceded the panic of 1873. The book is a story of how Cooke sold more than two thousand millions of United States bonds and then set out to civilize the Northwest from Duluth to Tacoma, a region then inhabited chiefly by hostile Indians and black herds of buffalo.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS will publish on March 1 "The History of Painting from the Fourth to the Early Nineteenth Century," by Dr. Richard Muther, professor in the University of Breslau, a comprehensive work, in two illustrated volumes, on the history of painting, which is at once trustworthy as an authority and entertaining reading, whose aim is, while not neglecting technical questions, to interpret the great masterpieces of painting as human documents and manifestations of the dominant feelings and tendencies of the epochs to which they belong. They will bring out on March 15 "The Country House," by John Galsworthy, author of "The Man of Property," in which the author sets himself the task of presenting social life in a rural setting as in his earlier works he depicted phases of the English metropolitan world; "The Letters of One," by Charles H. Plunkett, a novel which takes its title from the circumstance that the story is chiefly in the form of a young novelist's letters to the woman he loves, or to the woman who loves him, or to the woman he may or may not love and who may or may not love him—none of the letters written by the woman being given; "Diagnosis of Organic Nervous Diseases," by Dr. Christian A. Herter, of Columbia University, revised by Dr. L. Pierce Clark, the well-known neurologist; "Scientific Sanction for the Use of Alcohol Proved and Popularly Expounded by a Physiologist," by Dr. J. Starke; also, "How to Find Happyland," by Jasmine Stone Van Dresser, a book for children full of grace, sprightliness, simplicity, ingenuous and surprising turns of plot and glimpses of the world of fairy and fantasy, with illustrations by Miss Florence E. Storer. They will publish later in March Thomas Wright's "Life of Walter Pater;" "The Mecklenburg Declaration of Independence," a study of evidence, showing that the alleged early Declaration of Independence by Mecklenburg County, North Carolina, on the 20th of May, 1775, is spurious, by William Henry Hoyt; "The Union Cause in Kentucky, 1860-1865," by Captain Thomas Speed, a narrative of the struggle of the Union men in Kentucky to hold their State in the Union when other States were seceding and efforts were being made to carry Kentucky into the Southern Confederacy; also, a work on "The Nervous and Mental Hygiene," by Augustus Forel, translated by Austin Aikins.

MARCH 6, 7, 10 A.M. and 2 P.M.—Library of Thomas Rodney Reynolds, of Providence, R. I., limited editions, library sets, early printed books, first editions, etc. (1456 lots.)—Libbie.

THE collection of William C. Van Antwerp, of New York City, will be sold at Sotheby's, London, on March 22 and 23. W. C. Van Antwerp, of the Stock Exchange house of E. R. Chapman & Co., New York City, has international fame as a bibliophile. His collection of 200 volumes which is to be sold in London next month is spoken of by experts as one of the most remarkable of its size in the world, and includes so many unique pieces that the American market was deemed too narrow for its advantageous disposal. "Authorities on the subject," according to the New York Times, "consider the Van Antwerp collection remarkable not only for the rarity of many of the volumes, of which some are said to be the only examples that have survived the wear and tear of the centuries, but for the particularly fine condition of some of the volumes it contains of the rare editions, which are the dearest prizes of the bibliophile. His first edition of Izaak Walton's 'Compleat Angler,' for example, is said to be as clean and perfect as when it left the hands of the printer centuries ago. This book is particularly hard to find in a good state of preservation, experts say, presumably because it was the habit of Walton's contemporaries to carry his treatise with them on their excursions afield, with the result that most of the copies that have survived are much thumbed and tattered and stained with seventeenth century brookside lunches and baits, both liquid and of the barnyard variety."

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five nonpareil lines, exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small undisplayed advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their Communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

RE In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges. Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash.]

RE Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly" does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," book-sellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

FRIDAY, THE 13TH

By

THOMAS W. LAWSON

THE absorbing story of a great and passionate love, which endures through the terrible suffering brought on by money madness.

A book which is going to make history; the author is convinced that it shows a perfectly simple yet inevitable way by which any broker with nerve enough can pull down the pillars of the Wall Street structure. A novel which will surely reach its hundreds and thousands of readers, men and women, quickly.

India Paper Edition, Red Letter Edition, Regular Editions, Sunday-School Scholars' Bibles

Nearly five years ago we were invited to become associated with those Bible publishers who are governed by an agreement to maintain high prices. We refused to do so. The wisdom of our refusal, and its importance to booksellers, becomes apparent when at this time we are able to say that our Bible business is entirely satisfactory, and Bibles of equal quality to ours cannot be purchased elsewhere at prices less than from 25 to 50 per cent more than we ask for them. JUST THINK THIS OVER.

Any of our books can be purchased of us direct or of your jobber if more convenient to you. Don't pay Dictionary Trust or Bible Combination prices for Dictionaries or Bibles. Buy our books and make more money.

The Miracle Worker

By GERALD MAXWELL

The World says this appeal to the multitudinous world of novel readers will receive a hearty response. The most salient characteristic is its entire novelty . . . it will not do to skip a line of this wondrous tale. The miracle worker of the tale is an enthusiastic young surgeon, who apparently restores life by the aid of occult power and marvellous surgical skill.

Frontispiece in color by GEO. F. GRAY

Cloth. 400 pages. $1.50

"A 20th Century Pilgrim's Progress"

The Quest

By DR. FREDERIK VAN EEDEN

It has all the qualities of popularity, yet will appeal to the cultured. It is at times as weird as Poe, as fantastic as Hoffman, as beautiful as Ruskin, as interesting as the best of Tolstoi, as subtle as Maeterlinck, as profound as Shakespeare. It is the mingling of a novel, an epic, a fairy tale, a popular book and an ethical and philosophic treatise, full of romantic beauty and idealic grace, representing a work of 15 years on the part of the author. Mystically fascinating.

Attractively bound. 500 pages. $1.50

A Question of Honor

By DR. MAX NORDAU

The authorized translation, by MARY J. SAFFORD, of this play, which has been produced so successfully in Germany and Russia, discussing with great dramatic power the treatment of the Jews in those countries.

A NEW BOOK ALONG NEW LINES

NORROY DIPLOMATIC AGENT

GEORGE BRONSON HOWARD

"Something new," did you say?

Here's NORROY, which is quite out of the ordinary. The author, George Bronson-Howard, invades for the first time the thrice-guarded privacy of the State Department, where he finds a series of exciting stories that are of breathless interest.

The appearance of the book, too, is greatly in its favor. It is the handsomest $1.50 book we have had in a long time.

A Prisoner's Letter to the Publishers

STATE PENITENTIARY,
COLUMBUS, OHIO, January 7, 1907.

THE SAALFIELD PUB. CO., Akron, Ohio.

GENTLEMEN: Tied around a package received from home yesterday, by accident doubtless, were a few of the proof sheets of "NORROY, DIPLOMATIC AGENT," which I judge to be a new book your house is about to publish. Now I know something about the detective business from more than one point of view; and I know something about books, as I was a book agent before I began promoting. More than that, I have read all Conan Doyle's stories, and all of Anna Katharine Green's, Raffles, Gaboriau and all the rest of them, so I may say I know a good detective story. If these proof sheets are a fair sample, NORROY will be the best of the bunch. Won't you send me a copy as soon as the book is out? It don't seem as though I can wait until I finish my engagement here. I'll pay you sure with the first money I earn (I almost said get). Sincerely yours,

WANT THIS NEW AND REMARKABLE BOOK IN STOCK

BECAUSE:

1. "A chapter of MR. DEVERY, taken early in the morning, will set one up for the day. . . . There is a spur to digestion and a hearty laugh that is better tonic than all the stuff the doctors can give."

—Louisville Courier-Journal.

2. "The most difficult of literary achievements—the knack of making the reader laugh aloud." —Augusta Chronicle.

3. "A vein of humor that deserves to spell success." —State Register, Springfield, Ill.

4. It contains a great many quotable remarks, humorous, shrewd, witty, and wise." —Cincinnati Inquirer.

5. "Creates a smile while it preaches a sermon." —Utica Globe.

6. "His epigrams are real gems. . . . It is chock full of worldly wisdom." —Pittsburg Post.
